As a result of Israeli security forces operations in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem

31 refugee fatalities from a total of 102 Palestinians killed

43% of Palestine refugee fatalities occurred in the context of alleged or perpetrated attacks against Israeli security forces or civilians. There are concerns that excessive use of force may have been used in a number of these incidents

376 refugees injured* in or around camps
18% of refugee injuries are children

Proportion of total Palestine refugees injured by live ammunition in/around camps

163 refugees injured* in or around camps with live ammunition during Israeli security force operations
43% of all Palestine refugee injuries were caused by live ammunition

Main Concerns

- Increase in the proportion of live ammunition use and concerns of excessive use of force, killing or injuring civilians
- Severe and repeated exposure to tear gas by refugees living in camps during incursions and confrontations
- Large number of children killed, injured and detained
- Concerning reports of delay or hindrance of emergency medical access

* 'Injuries' denote cases where medical treatment or intervention is required as a result of bodily harm sustained as the result of use of force. Data on refugees killed and injured from UNRWA. Data on total numbers of Palestinians killed from OCHA. For data on Israeli casualties, see relevant OCHA reports. In view of its mandate, the Agency is not in a position to collect information with regard to casualties other those concerning Palestine refugees
